Economics is a discipline that studies various economic activities and various corresponding economic relations and the laws of operation and development of human society at various stages of development. Finance is a discipline that is differentiated from economics and studies capital financing. It mainly includes four major academic fields: banking, securities, insurance, and trust. Economics is a study of wealth, but also a study of people. This is a thought-provoking subject.

Universal Journal of Financial Economics (UJFE) is an international, peer-reviewed, open access journal on finance and economics research. UJFE is currently published semi-annually, and with the help of every member of the editorial board, it will then be transformed into a quarterly journal.

We will ensure a rigorous and rapid peer review process to provide rapid and scientifically accurate dissemination of research. We also invite all researchers involved in relevant studies to submit their new findings and join the editorial board to help us develop UJFE into a successful and well-established journal. Its target is scientific excellence of publications and a transparent and efficient referee procedure, leading to an outstanding reputation within the scientific community of its research field. We hope that you will enjoy publishing with us.
